THODOS DANCE CHICAGO AND DANCEWORKS CHICAGO ANNOUNCE NEW DANCES 2020 CHOREOGRAPHERS

CHICAGO—New Dances 2020 continues its over 30-year tradition of providing an extensive in-house choreography incubation program for Chicago’s dance community with Melissa Thodos, Founder and Artistic Director of Thodos Dance Chicago, and Julie Nakagawa, Co-Founder and Artistic Director of DanceWorks Chicago at the helm. New Dances was founded by the Chicago Repertory Dance Ensemble in the 1980s, in 2000 it found a new home with Thodos Dance Chicago (TDC). This year marks the 20th anniversary of New Dances being under the Thodos Dance Chicago umbrella, as well as the third year of New Dances being co-produced by TDC and DanceWorks Chicago (DWC).

After receiving applications from a diverse pool of choreographers reflecting a broad range of dancemaking in Chicagoland, invitations were extended to six choreographers. Melissa Thodos (TDC) recounts, “Having received a record number of applications, it is abundantly clear that New Dances continues as a vital and needed project to enrich our Community. We have selected some of Chicago’s best and brightest dance makers and having assembled a diverse cross section of choreographers at different stages in their career trajectory from early to mid-career, it is our honor to help them to grow and achieve their creative goals.”

Few opportunities exist in the United States for emerging choreographers to receive robust artistic, financial, and production support to realize their creative vision for the stage with no expectation other than the investment in the journey. Each New Dances choreographer will be supported by a creative residency including 25 hours of studio time plus time on stage to bring their choreographic vision to life with a company of local, professional dancers selected through an audition for the project. In addition, Melissa Thodos (TDC) and Julie Nakagawa (DWC) along with a panel of leaders from the Chicago dance community provide mentorship for the artists during and the process and post-production as well.

On Sunday, April 5, 2020, New Dances 2020 Company Auditions will be hosted at Ruth Page Center for the Arts. TDC and DWC are searching for Chicago-area dancers, who are technically-proficient, stylistically-diverse, and artistically-inclined dancers to participate in a one-of-a-kind audition- no numbers, no costs, no cuts, just a community of dancers. Julie Nakagawa (DWC) recounted from New Dances 2019, “It was gratifying to hear choreographers and dancers comment about how mutually inspiring the audition process was.”
DANCERS: Dancers should be current residents of the Chicago area. Selected artists from the community will be invited to join members of DWC to comprise the New Dances 2020 Company. Auditions will be held at the Ruth Page Center at 11am on Sunday, April 5. Dancers should be available for the entire creative, production, and performance period June 1 - 20. Audition pre-registration is required and available: https://thodosdancechicago.org/ or https://www.danceworkschicago.org/.

Supporting this journey is Ashley Rockwood from Dancers Awareness Project (DAP), a dance-based production company, who also documented New Dances 2018 and 2019. Rockwood created this company in 2016 as a means to share content and experiences with and about the dance community. Jacob Snodgrass will be joining the team for the third year in a row as New Dances' Lighting Designer & Production Stage Manager. Snodgrass has been designing lights and working in the Chicago dance community since 2000.

New Dances 2020 is a must-see Chicago summer event presenting six world premiere dance works that feature a diverse line-up of fresh, homegrown talent of choreographers and dancers in a fully-produced performance. New Dances 2020 will take place at Theater Wit June 17-20 (additional performance, ticket, and special event information to be released at a later date).
